GI Joes In Belgium Toyland

Enjoying a short respite from the rigors of war, Ronald Foye, Brockton; Sgt. Joseph J. Hammer, Wellesley, and Nat Landau of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., invade a Liege, Belgium, store toyland, in search of Christmas presents for the youthful relatives back home. The local boys seem to have found what they desire in the animal department, as they check over the display of the wooden toys.

SITE OF BURTON-ON-TRENT Explosion Rocks Town (arrow)

LONDON, Nov. 27 (INS)—A tremendous explosion, believed to have occurred at a Royal Air Force base several miles away, today rocked the town of Burton-on-Trent.

Ambulances and fire-fighting equipment were rushed to the scene.

The blast rendered unstable the steeple of Morninglow Church in a suburb of Burton, while all over the city chimney-pots were toppled into the streets.

their front inside the Reich to 19 miles at the western fringe of the industrial Saarland.

Lt. Gen. Hodges' troops also drove into Hurtgen at the edge of the deadly forest. German resistance was strong; the enemy's cannon and anti-tank fire was especially heavy. The weather was relatively clear allowing overwhelming Allied air power to support the infantry and tanks.

Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army fought through Maginot Line fortresses on a sector southeast of the new penetration into Germany, moving to within four miles of the Saar border.

Seventh Army troops broadened the Strasbourg corridor to almost 15 miles and spilled through the Saales Pass to open a new route to the French city at the Rhine.

Heavy fighting continued in the Aachen sector where assault teams of the U. S. First and Ninth armies closed in upon the Germans' Roer river line from Julich to Duren.

The goal of the First Army is to break clear of the Hurtgen forest and drive into more maneuverable country where their tanks will be able to give the infantry close support.

The Americans have almost reached the edge of the forest. In their drive toward the industrial Saar Basin, Third Army troops captured 10 forts in the Maginot Line and outflanked another. A fresh breach in the line was scored today.

At the northern end of the 400-mile western front the British Second Army probed into the western defenses of the Dutch border city of Venlo, a gateway to Germany's Ruhr.

The British still had to cross an anti-tank ditch 25 feet wide and five to six feet deep.

Other British troops on the northern flank of the battle area beyond Aachen gained a 500-yard stretch of high ground overlooking the Wurm valley north of Geilenkirchen.

In Alsace, American Seventh Army troops which pushed through the Saales pass spread out on the Rhine plain 10 miles southwest of Strasbourg. The pass was cleared yesterday.

In Strasbourg French units under Lt. Gen. Patch captured two enemy generals and squeezed the Germans back to bridgeheads on the western ends of three great Rhine spans which according to latest reports still were intact. Forts Nevy, Petain, Kleber and others in the ring around France's eastern pillar city were captured.

Maj. Gen. Wilhelm Ullersperger, fort system commander was caught trying to get back to Strasbourg. Maj. Gen. Franz Vaterbot, Strasbourg operations commander, and his chief of staff, Lt.-Col. Willing Kaiser, also were captured.

REDS SQUEEZE BUDAPEST ON NORTH, SOUTH

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, Nov. 27 (AP)—Russian armored units lashed out from captured Hatvan toward the Danube north of Budapest today while directly downstream from the Hungarian capital another Red formation was reported to have seized a foothold on narrow Csepel island.

Hatvan, 25 miles northeast of Budapest, fell yesterday after a 10-day struggle. With its capture Marshal Malinovsky was able to maneuver his Second Ukrainian Army for head-on attacks to outflank Budapest.

Meanwhile, troops of Gen. Petrov's Fourth Ukrainian Army shattered a main 60-mile defense line across eastern Slovakia by capturing the key rail and road hubs of Michalovce and Humenne in a 12-mile advance.

This thrust brought the Russians within 25 miles of the Slovakian strongholds of Koska (Kosice) and Presov.

RAF Heavies Plaster Munich

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP)—RAF Lancasters blasted Munich in a concentrated before-dawn attack today and hundreds of other heavy bombers rose from their British bases shortly after with large cargoes of bombs, probably intended for Nazi oil refineries.

Enemy oil production facilities have been hit by nearly 7000 tons of bombs in the last 48 hours and 122 Nazi fighters were shot out of the air in a big battle yesterday when the German air force sought to defend the natural oil refinery at Miesburg against 1800 American planes.

WESTERN FRONT—The American First and Ninth Armies were closing in on the Nazi Roer river line today, driving 14 miles inside Germany to take Frenz, 25 miles from Cologne, and plugging into Hurtgen, at the edge of the forest. To the north, British Second Army forces probed into the western defenses of Venlo, gateway to Germany's Ruhr.

Yanks on Leyte Continue Gains

MacARTHUR HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 27 (AP)—Infantrymen of the U. S. 32nd Division continued their southward push on Leyte island today, as a communique noted that Japanese resistance is steadily decreasing in Ormoc corridor.

Faenza Battle Nears Climax

ROME, Nov. 27 (INS)—British Eighth Army Forces closed in on the key Italian communications hub of Faenza from the south and east today and established a bridgehead across the Marengo river only a mile from their goal.

British and Polish columns drove the Germans out of the entire area east of the Lamone river north of Brisighella, six miles southwest of Faenza.

Military observers said the long and bitter battle for Faenza, more than halfway on the route to Bologna from Rimini, appeared to be nearing a climax as German panzer divisions were driven back after three days of heavy fighting.

American pilots sank three small troop-laden freighter-transports off Cebu Saturday night in mashing another Japanese attempt to reinforce their Leyte forces.

The 32d threw back a light counter-attack and continued to press southward from Limon. Units of the 7th Division repulsed a second night attack at Palanas, 11 miles south of Ormoc.

In the Japanese attempt to get badly-needed reinforcements ashore, at least 17,000 Nipponese have been lost at sea and 19 convoy vessels and 14 escorting warships sent to the bottom.

After destroying four transports off Cebu Saturday, in a repeat of a similar performance the previous day, Yank pilots found the three freighter-transports in the evening. Apparently they were trying to sneak into Ormoc at night.

Improved air activity, aided by Japanese weather, showed no signs of slowing yesterday. Bombers hit the Tacloban area under a bright moon, causing some damage and casualties. Antiaircraft fire brought down four Nipponese planes.

U. S. Razes 7th China Airbase

CHUNGKING, Nov. 27 (AP)—The last forward American air base in south China, a fighter field at Nanning, has been abandoned and destroyed in the face of advancing Japanese armies. U. S. Army headquarters announced today.

It was the seventh U. S. air base lost in the Japanese north and south thrusts which for all practical purposes appear to have succeeded in splitting China in two.

Meanwhile, Japanese troops driving westward from Luichow along the Kwangsi-Kweichow railroad were close to the Kweichow border today.

TOKYO BLASTED ANEW—U. S. Superfortresses returned to Tokyo (A) today, less than four days after they had blasted the heart of Japan's capital city, to devastate more of Nippon's war industries. Flying from Saipan bases the giant bombers, attacking in broad daylight, could still see fires burning from the previous raid. Thailand targets (B) also came under the bombsights of the B-29's in a raid of selected enemy sites.

B29s Pound Tokyo 2 Hrs., Hit Thailand

By VERNE HAUGLAND

SAIPAN, Nov. 27 (AP) (Via Navy Radio)—B-29's pounded the Tokyo industrial area for the second time in four days today, matching the initial sizable raiding task of Superforts almost plane for plane.

(The 20th Air Force announced in Washington that B-29's from India simultaneously raided Thailand in a double demonstration of the might of America's new giant bomber command.)

(This was the second time Superfortresses attacked Bangkok. The giant bombers visited the Thailand port on the first bombing flight in Asia early last June.)

In an amazing display of sustained power, the great silvered planes stood in line along taxiways and roared down the mile and a half long runways at one minute intervals with even greater clockwork precision than on last Friday's initial raid.

The two Tokyo raids by Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell's 21st bomber command gave a striking demonstration of the slight amount of damage done by Tokyo's defenders and of the impressive resources in still unused B-29s and men.

Comparatively few fliers in today's raid took part in last Friday's strike. The second Superfortress mission to Tokyo was led by Col. Walter C. Sweeney, Jr., 35, son of Maj. Gen. Sweeney.

Col. Sweeney rode in a B-29 commanded by Maj. Robert K. Sewell, Jr.

Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, who led the Friday attack, remained at the base today. Maj. Robert K. Morgan, who piloted the first Superfort bombing Tokyo over the target, returned to the attack on this mission, leading one of the component formations.

The Superforts were scheduled to start hitting Tokyo about noon. (Tokyo radio said they began dropping bombs at 1 p. m.) There were enough bombers to keep pressing the attack for two hours.

Members of today's mission, who had the benefit of the experience gained by fliers last Friday, expected less difficulty in maneuvering the 1500 miles to Tokyo and pinpointing their targets, but they anticipated stronger flights. The Japanese acknowledged the loss of seven fighters in combat.

40 Superforts In Raid, Says Tokyo

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Japanese imperial headquarters, officially admitting that Tokyo has been bombed for the second time within four days, claimed today that about 40 American Superfortresses carried out the attack.

The raid lasted about an hour, according to the communique, which asserted that "damage suffered by our side is slight, and none was caused to important installations."

The Tokyo broadcast added that the Yank warplanes also ranged widely over the major Japanese island of Honshu, bombing blindly through heavy cloud layers in the regions of Kanto, Tokaido and Kinki.

Official admission of the new attack came an hour after imperial headquarters issued another communique claiming that long-range Japanese bombers had raided the American B-29 base at Saipan. There was no confirmation of a Japanese attack upon Saipan.

Tunnel Crash Ties Traffic Two Hours

Head-on collision between a truck and auto midway through the Sumner tunnel during the morning rush hour tied up traffic on both sides for almost two hours today.

Waiting vehicles were jammed for almost a half-mile on each side of the tunnel before police were able to restore orderly traffic.

The crash came, police said, when an eastbound truck, operated by Manuel Martin, Jr., of Tremont st., South End, was in collision with an auto driven by John E. McGunagle of Coleridge st., East Boston. Both machines, badly damaged, were towed out of the tunnel.

Police cleared the tunnel on each side of the wreckage by ordering drivers to turn around in its narrow confines and drive back to where they entered. Drivers of cars waiting outside at each entrance, meanwhile, were detoured via the Chelsea bridge.

Not Seeking Mayoral Job, Says Fitzgerald

Asserting he can best use his remaining years in constructive work for Boston and Massachusetts without the responsibilities of public office, former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald announced today that he is not considering becoming a candidate for mayor.

In a formal statement commenting on reports that he was a potential candidate, the former mayor hinted that he hoped Sen. James M. Curley would stay in Congress rather than seek the mayoralty.

Would Execute Cambridge GI

FELTHAM, Middlesex, Eng., Nov. 27 (AP)—The death penalty was demanded today for Karl Gustav Hulten of Cambridge, Mass., an American parachute trooper, and Elizabeth Marina Jones, 18, English strip-tease dancer, accused of the robbery slaying of George Heath, a taxi cab driver.

Prosecutor H. A. K. Morgan declared the killing was "a deliberate, cold-blooded act by Hulten."

"Even if Jones did not know that Hulten intended to kill Heath," he added, "she certainly knew that Hulten was armed and that he intended to use violence if necessary to attain their joint purpose, which was robbery."

The prosecutor, opening the trial of the two on murder charges, declared that under British law, "the killing was murder by both people who started out to commit the felony."

It was the first trial of an American soldier in British courts. The prosecutor said that Hulten, under the visiting forces act, would have been tried by an American court-martial, but that the American authorities had turned the 22-year-old soldier over to British courts because he was charged jointly with a British citizen.

Hulten and the girl had been "on the most intimate possible terms," the prosecutor said. The defendants, stood side by side in the dock, both looking around the crowded courtroom. Hulten was in uniform.

Heath was found dead with a bullet through his back in a ditch at Knowle Green, near Staines, in October.

The prosecutor quoted Hulten as saying in a statement, "If it had not been for her I would not have shot Heath."

"Jones describes herself as a strip-tease artist at a night club," the prosecutor said. "She is a married woman, her husband serving abroad."

Quoting a statement he said had been made by the girl, the prosecutor said "she and Hulten left her room on the evening of Oct. 7 with the avowed intention of stopping a taxi and robbing the driver."

and that Heath agreed to drive them to Hammersmith for 10 shillings (about $2).

Com. Barnes Cited for Heroism in 2 Actions

Byrnes in Lead For Hull's Post

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (INS)—Highest New Deal spokesmen assert today President Roosevelt has accepted the resignation of Sec. Hull upon the condition that, his health permitting, he will serve the government ex-officio in the postwar negotiation of world peace.

One of the administration's highest authorities informed International News Service Hull has resigned, with the blunt disclosure to the President that his health would no longer permit him to continue.

This authority said Hull's resignation was so phrased Mr. Roosevelt is convinced his three-term Secretary of State will not return to public life.

News of Hull's resignation gave birth to a flurry of speculation on his successor.

Rumor has it the President's first choice is war mobilization czar Byrnes. Byrnes is one of the President's most intimate friends and one of the most popular men on Capitol Hill.

Byrnes resigned as war mobilizer early this month but the President rejected it and promoted him two weeks ago to the new post of director of war mobilization and reconversion.

Byrnes accepted, even though he had already rented offices in Washington where he proposed to practice law.

Other rumors as to Hull's successor were:

Second choice was Secretary of War Stimson.

Third choice was Undersecretary of State Stettinius.

Fourth choice was Vice-President Wallace.

Fifth choice was John G. Winant, a former Republican Governor of New Hampshire and present ambassador to England.

Hull's illness is a tragic thing to both his friends and his few critics on Capitol Hill. There have been few men in public life in the last hundred years who have won so great an affection from both the Democrats and Republicans in and out of Congress.

Hull last appeared at the State Department Oct. 2, his 73d birthday. The next day he was confined to his home by illness. A few days later he was taken to the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md., reportedly suffering from a throat ailment.

Many of his friends and most of the public believed the throat ailment incapacitated him from further service in the State Department. However, one of his intimate friends informed International News Service he also suffers from a severe diabetic condition and from an ailment of the lungs. This friend declared Hull's decision to resign was based, not upon the condition of his throat, but on the other two ailments.

Promotion of Byrnes to Secretary of State would surprise no one in Washington.

Sec. Stimson is known to be the choice of Justice Frankfurter.

Some New Dealers believe Undersecretary of State Stettinius will be promoted. Stettinius is Justice Frankfurter's second choice.

Wallace would be first choice as Hull's successor were it not for the fact that his closest friends say the President recently told him he could have any place in the administration he desired except that of Secretary of State.

Steel Wage Issue to FD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The OPA expects to determine in about a month whether pay increases awarded CIO steelworkers would necessitate higher steel prices. OPA officials said today a study will begin at once.

The WLB announced wage awards, principally on shift differentials, expected to average around 5 cents an hour for 400,000 steelworkers.

The WLB made the awards on the basis of eliminating inequities, without altering the Little Steel formula.

The union's principal demand, for a 17-cent hourly increase that would crack the wage ceiling, has been passed along to the White House.

Belgrade Expels Woman Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (AP)—Eleanor Packard, United Press war correspondent, has been expelled from Belgrade on the ground she had violated Yugoslav censorship regulations, the United Press said yesterday.

Mrs. Packard, who with her husband, Reynolds Packard, has been covering the European battle grounds, was quoted from Rome as saying Yugoslav press authorities did not like a dispatch commenting upon the many pictures of Marshal Stalin and Marshal Tito in Belgrade shop windows and the death of pictures of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Conscription Riot Fear Grips Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 (AP)—Special disciplinary measures to maintain order were taken in draftee camps throughout Canada today as Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King faced a bitterly torn Parliament to ask for a vote of confidence in his new policy of partial conscription for overseas service.

The life of King's nine-year-old regime hung in the balance as the House of Commons assembled to debate the conscription issue, the most explosive political question in Canada's modern history.

In some areas of Quebec, troops of all categories were told to keep off the streets in certain cities to lessen the possibility of violent outbreaks such as marked the week-end in various parts of the Dominion.

Similar precautions were taken in British Columbia, where more than 25,000 home defense soldiers are stationed, approximately 3000 of them French-speaking, and where demonstrations occurred in at least five places.

Prime Minister King's confidence motion asks the House "to aid this government in its policy of maintaining a vigorous war."

The wording—not mentioning conscription—was calculated to win as many votes as possible from various groups of his own supporters whose desires range all the way from total conscription to none at all.

Debate on the prime minister's motion was expected to run through several days, with opposition motions being offered and voted upon in the meantime.

Much was expected to depend on the stand of former Defense Minister J. L. Ralston, who resigned early this month because he could not win the government to his view of digging into the home defense army for urgently-needed reinforcements abroad.

Clare Luce Still Silent As Group Starts War Tour

LONDON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The Army bundled the touring U. S. House military committee out of London last night for an inspection of military establishments in the United Kingdom.

An Army spokesman declined to discuss the itinerary because of "security reasons."

Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R.) of Connecticut was missing yesterday at the first press conference held by the group. Rep. Matt Merritt (D.) of New York, who presided, branded as "ridiculous" a suggestion the Army was holding the woman Representative incommunicado to keep her from issuing any statements.

Merritt said the committee had asked the Army Supply Service for an explanation for the cigarette shortage among GIs. He said the committee also would investigate the reported shell shortage.

The New York Herald-Tribune in a dispatch from London said Mrs. Luce told reporters five hours after the press conference she had been instructed to keep quiet by an Army public relations officer attached to the United Kingdom base.

"When informed there had been no authorization for this request," the Herald-Tribune story said, Mrs. Luce "also discussed the cigarette shortage."

The account quoted her as saying "every civilian ought to give up smoking if it is necessary in order to let the GIs have cigarettes, and the women ought to be the first to do it. And I am a heavy smoker myself."

SWAMPED BY GI CALLS—Virginia Weidler, screen star, is being swamped with phone calls from soldiers and sailors who learned her Hollywood number from her pal, Nancy Walker, in New York's Stage Door Canteen. She promises them all a "date" when they have leave.

Urge Doubling Of Pay Tax

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—The administration formally placed before Congress today its request that the Social Security tax be allowed to double Jan. 1.

A. J. Altmyer, Social Security board chairman, told the House Ways and Means Committee that Congress either must let the tax rise or assume an obligation to appropriate subsidies later to meet Social Security obligations.

A "freeze," he said, will leave security funds inadequate.

Altmyer appeared as a bloc sought to compromise the impending fight by suggesting that the levy be allowed to rise from 1 to 1½ per cent against both employer and employee, instead of the 2 per cent level provided in the 1935 Social Security Act.

Plenty of Cigs For Pacific GIs

MACARTHUR HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 27 (AP)—GI Joe, fighting the Japanese in the Philippines, may not see cities like Paris and have pretty girls swarm over his jeep, but he is assured of cigarettes while his buddies in Europe face a shortage.

Battleline fatigue and nervousness under fire make cigarettes almost a necessity for soldiers.

Supply Officer Maj. Robert O. Russell, Champagne, said so far in this campaign cigarettes are available for all at the rate of a pack per man per day.

"We figure cigarettes in with rations the same as sugar, salt, or meat," he said. "Officers and enlisted men get the same allowance and no partiality is shown as to favorite brands."

So if your favorite brand is missing from dealers' shelves, you have this comfort:

Some rain-soaked, weary soldier may be huddling in a fox-hole with your package.

Monty's 6 U. S. Goldfish Arrive

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 27 (AP)—Field Marshal Montgomery reports his six goldfish have arrived, "in terrific heart."

The goldfish were shipped by the Missouri Vulture of the 40 and 8. This organization decided Montgomery was surrounded with noisy pets. How about some nice, quiet ones for a change?

Replied Montgomery:

"Thank you very much indeed for your interesting and amusing present of six Missouri goldfish. They arrived yesterday, via Paris, only seven days en route, and were in terrific heart. I should say that in the goldfish world this is probably one of the longest journeys ever made."

'Ike', Bradley Visit Occupied Reich Town

SARREBOURG, France (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower, accompanied by Lt. Gen. Bradley, 12th Army group commander, visited this newly occupied town, while the Germans were counterattacking only five miles to the northeast.

Tommy Dorsey, Wife On Trial in Hall Fracas

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27 (AP)—Band leader Tommy Dorsey and his actress wife, Pat Dane, had a booking in court to fulfill to day, on charges of felonious assault based upon an early-morning fight in the Dorsey apartment last Aug. 5.

WAR'S INNOCENT BYSTANDERS—Two German women aid a neighbor who was injured when a Nazi shell, fired at Allied troops occupying a town somewhere in Germany, struck her house.

Indicted with them was Allen Smiley, Hollywood figure, whose trial likewise was scheduled to open today.

Screen Actor Jon Hall charged he was severely injured in the fight, which followed an evening spent as guest of the Dorseys. Physicians said several stitches were taken in his nose.

A recent move to dismiss the indictment was halted when Antonio Icaza, Panama-born actor and also a guest at the party, indicated he would return here to testify. Icaza, immigration authorities said, had agreed to return to Panama when they released him from a charge of illegal entry into the United States.

Hall, testifying before the grand jury last September, said he had left the party but returned for a purse forgotten by his companion. He stated he became involved in an altercation with Dorsey after he patted the band-leader's wife on the shoulder, and that while he and Dorsey were fighting on the apartment's balcony, Mrs. Dorsey cut him with a knife or a bottle.

In his grand jury testimony filed with superior court, Hall said also that Dorsey told him, "I'm going to kill you."

Dorsey, his wife and Smiley declined to testify.

Hall told the jury the end of his nose was almost severed in the fracas.

Witnesses Called In Favor of Norton

Trustees of Boston State Hospital today summoned a third and final group of witnesses in a secret probe of the administration of Dr. Harold F. Norton, whose eight-year reign as superintendent is under fire.

Remaining witnesses favor retention of Dr. Norton as the hospital head, according to Alexander M. Sullivan, chairman of the trustees, who has scheduled the final hearing for tonight.

Sullivan further declared that if any removal action is taken, Dr. Norton will be granted a public hearing. He added that any vote on such removal would not be made until all charges and testimony had been thoroughly sifted. Decision of the trustees is not to be made public until later in the week, he said.

Meanwhile, Dr. Norton, who has been on sick leave since Nov. 15, announced he had no statement to make until after the trustees have acted.

Dr. Norton laughed at the idea he was a bedridden invalid. His brother, Clement A. Norton, member of the Boston School Committee, said he was suffering from a heart ailment brought on by pneumonia contracted after eight and a half years' service without a vacation.

7 Flee Homes In Lynn Blaze

Seven persons were driven from their homes today when flames swept a two-family house in Johnson st., Lynn, causing damage estimated at $2000.

The fire was discovered in the basement by Rene LeBlanc, 16, first-floor occupant, who aroused the others. Those who fled, in addition to LeBlanc, were Mrs. Helen Fielding, 47; her daughters, Claire, 19, Lucille, 16, Patricia, 11, and Elsie, 9, and Frank Crush, 25, a roomer.

FD'S ENVOY IN CHINA

Fall River Soldier Wins Silver Star

PFC Leo J. St. Onge of Harrison ave., Fall River, an infantryman, has been awarded the Silver Star Medal for heroic action against the enemy last May in Italy, it was announced by the War Dept. today.

When his machine gun section suffered heavy casualties in attacking an enemy hill position, St. Onge carried 120 pounds of equipment across a river—saving a member of his section from drowning during the crossing—and set up his machine gun in an exposed position. He continued to fire until his gun was destroyed, then held the enemy at bay by fire from a rifle borrowed from a wounded comrade until his section was removed that night.

Boy Held in Attack On Mother of 4

LAWRENCE, Nov. 27—Louis W. Brown, 17, of Park st., was held for the Essex County grand jury under bond of $1000 today after pleading not guilty in district court to assault with intent to perpetrate a criminal attack on a mother of four children.

Mrs. Bernadette Labrosse, 30, of Oxford st., told Judge John J. Darcy that Brown had accosted her in a tavern Friday night, followed her home and struck her when she fought off his advances.

Police Capt. Martin V. O'Sullivan testified Brown was arrested after four youths overpowered him.

Aged Brother, Sister Die Within Hours

An aged sister and brother were joined in death today.

Charles W. Merrill, 80, of Centre st., Jamaica Plain, long a conductor for the New Haven railroad, died suddenly while visiting relatives in Haverhill. On hearing the news, Miss Jessie M. Merrill, 78, died within a few hours at their Jamaica Plain home.

Stork Derby Gives Film Bosses Jitters

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27 (AP)—Filmland's record-breaking 1943-44 stork derby was roaring—or bawling—toward its Christmas finish line today, but Hollywood producers were looking apprehensively to a new year of production schedules disrupted by the bird.

Even as Maureen O'Hara and Ruth Hussey returned to the cameras, Ann Sothern was awaiting summons momentarily to present a child to Lt. Robert Sterling, former actor.

Miss O'Hara, who bore Bronwyn Bridget FitzSimons Price last June, returned for "The Spanish Main," while Miss Hussey, mother of George Robert Longenecker, now four months old, resumed in the film "Bedside Manner."

One more prominent film date is on the stork list for the year, Orson Welles and Rita Hayworth are expecting a Christmas bundle.

Next year's announced entrants include Paulette Goddard (wife of Capt. Burgess Meredith), Hedy Lamarr (Mrs. John Loder), and Susan Hayward (Mrs. Jess Barker), but the studios' worry is over those actresses who aren't telling—yet. They well remember how long Betty Grable kept the secret of Victoria Elizabeth James, born last March.

Other 1944 movie mamas are Loretta Young, Betty Field, Martha Raye, Joan Rogers and Alice Faye. All are working now, or ready to resume, except Miss Faye, who seems in no hurry to get back to studio work.

The 1943 maternity ward included Gene Tierney, Lana Turner, Rosalind Russell and Claire Trevor, all of whom have had one or more films since motherhood.

Hearing Continued In Assault on Cop

Judge Elbridge G. Davis of Malden District Court today continued to Dec. 28 a hearing on assault charges against Eldred A. Zannino, 24, of Acton st., South End, who allegedly struck and severely injured an Everett policeman two weeks ago. Bail of $200 was continued.

It was explained to the court that Patrolman Henry A. Horseman was still in Whidden Memorial Hospital as the result of a tussle with Zannino. The latter is alleged to have interfered while Horseman was trying to make an arrest, striking the officer and fracturing the latter's cheekbone.

Wrong Move

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (INS)—Albert Gibson, 39, of Plainfield, N. J., was held in $2500 bail today on a burglary charge because a policeman spotted a clothing store dummy that twitched.

Detective James Costello strolled by a midtown haberdasher when he noticed shattering glass, a pile of clothes on the floor and three nude dummies beside another dummy—fully clothed.

The fourth dummy twitched and Detective Costello pinched it. It was Gibson.

ALWAYS GETTING PROPOSITIONED

every day oh, yes—not only once or twice—some times a dozen times. Stands to reason when you buy and sell about 15,000 bargains annually—someone is always turning up with a new bargain proposition. We have 58 buyers all over the country—New York, Chicago, St. Louis, California, among others and ready cash, as much as $10,000 always ready and waiting when that proposition pops up. We've been dealing steadily with some manufacturers for over a quarter of a century without a scrap of serious argument. And these partnerships must be mutually advantageous in both ourselves and the manufacturer.

DETROIT, Nov. 27 (INS)—Our days at Ravensbruck concentration camp were all very much alike—except for one day every six weeks. That was execution day. It came on a regular schedule, so we always knew when we lined up for appeal that day that some of us would be called out of ranks and taken off to be shot.

There was no way of finding out in advance who the victims were to be. The lists were sent up from Berlin.

Standing in line I would hear other women called out one by one—10 or 12 of them on each execution day, never knowing but that my own name might be the next one called.

The women named would step forward one pace. There was seldom any expression of emotion. Those who lived at Ravensbruck did not regard death as much of a misfortune.

They would be marched off to the office, then compelled to undress. Their clothing was back in the stock room next day for distribution to new arrivals.

While we were still standing at attention, a short time after the women had been called away, we would hear rifle shots from the corner of the camp that was used for executions.

Later in the day, we would see smoke rising from a crematorium we had been compelled to build. The executions were carried out by a special squad of 12 Gestapo men, who traveled from camp to camp for this purpose. After their job was done, they would go to the camp canteen to drink.

One of my fellow prisoners who worked at the canteen said the men seldom failed to express amazement at the way in which the Polish girls died—bravely, with a prayer for Poland on their lips.

When I first came to Ravensbruck it was apparent that the Nazis were planning it as a permanent institution.

They put us to work building substantial brick buildings. Before I left the camp, a great many of them had been completed and were attractively furnished and landscaped. These were for our guards and other members of the camp staff.

When there were no bricks to lay or roads to build, the women were kept busy unloading coal at a nearby ammunition plant.

Sometimes there was no even this work for us to do.

But the Germans always found something.

When they could think of nothing else, they made us fill wheelbarrows with snow and push them around the camp all day—not merely walking, but trotting in our wooden shoes.

Naturally few of the women could stand this routine for long. The turnover was about 200 a week out of the 12,000.

Until the fall of Italy the cruelties of our guards mounted.

However, with this foreshadowing of Germany's downfall, there was a marked change in their attitude.

Their first reaction was one of panic. Some tore identification insignia off their uniforms.

They began being more considerate of the prisoners, and tried to give the impression they really felt kindly toward us.

One Nazi woman guard—a dressmaker in civilian life—told some of us she had secreted a stock of dresses in the basement of our barracks and would aid us in escaping if the opportunity presented itself.

Until I managed to get away, by means which I cannot disclose, this opportunity for escape had never arisen.

A few tried it, however. I saw their bodies, sometimes, burned to a crisp by the high

Thompson Gets Bradford O. K.

Dist. Tty. Robert F. Bradford, who under the law must resign his office before taking the oath as lieutenant-governor, the post to which he was elected last Nov. 7, said today he would give up his Middlesex County duties on or about Dec. 20.

Bradford is understood to have recommended to Gov. Saltonstall that his third assistant, George Thompson, of Stratford rd., Melrose, be appointed as his successor. They are members of the same Boston law firm.

However, there is considerable opposition to Thompson's appointment in various parts of Middlesex County. Friends of Sen. Edward M. Rowe of Cambridge are reported to have requested that Gov. Saltonstall appoint him to fill Bradford's unexpired term.

There also was the possibility that Gov. Saltonstall might leave his own post to enter the U. S. Senate, filling out the unexpired term of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., an office Sen. Sinclair Weeks now is holding in an interim capacity.

Gov. Saltonstall refused to discuss this, saying he would talk the matter over with Sen. Weeks Friday when the latter came to Boston for the Associated Industries of Massachusetts banquet.

Should the Governor take up his senatorial duties, appointment of the new Middlesex district attorney would rest with Lt. Gov. Horace T. Cahill, who would become acting governor.

Air Feats to Spark 2-Day Bond Show

Paratroopers, airborne troops and a hospital air evacuation unit will be featured in the big Sixth War Loan Airborne Attack show at Logan Airport, East Boston, on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 8 and 9, the Treasury Department announced today.

A total of $62,400,000 worth of bonds, representing 8.5 per cent of the Massachusetts quota, have been sold thus far, the Massachusetts War Finance Committee announced today.

Individual purchases totaled $26,200,000 toward the state's individual quota of $173,000,000, the committee reported.

Sponsored jointly by the War and Treasury Departments in the interest of the Sixth War Loan, the show will give Boston residents their first opportunity to witness this new type of aerial warfare in action.

A highlight of the demonstration will be a snatch pickup of a glider from the ground by a C-47 cargo plane, using the technique now employed to retrieve gliders and planes, while the air evacuation unit will show how the wounded are transported by air from combat areas.

Airborne troops will load jeeps, artillery and other equipment into gliders and planes, while the air evacuation unit, using its own hospital plane, will show how the wounded are transported by air from combat areas.

The show will be presented by the Troop Carrier Command, Army Air Forces, commanded by Brig. Gen. William D. Old, with the co-operation of the Airborne Center, Camp Mackall, N. C.

HOW TO SAVE FUEL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP)—Massachusetts householders would save 58,650,560 gallons of fuel oil and 927,101 tons of coal if all homes in the state were equipped with storm windows, R. K. Thulman, chief of the Federal Housing Administration's mechanical engineering division, estimated today.

German Boys Form Anti-Hitler Gangs

Wounded Yanks' Courage Amazes Battlefront Nurse

WITH U. S. NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, Nov. 27 (AP)—Doughboys wounded along the Ninth Army front may have lost an arm or a leg but not their spirit or their sense of humor. The G.I.'s have the evacuation hospital wards sounding like a minstrel show.

"Some of these boys are hurt so badly I don't know how they ever will get well, but they are always thinking of something funny to say," said Lt. Julia Blandford, a nurse of Louisville, Ky.

"Thanksgiving night they brought in a wounded boy who had been captured by the Germans while in a pillbox. All he had to eat for five days was a piece of black bread.

"He pretended to be mad because he missed a turkey dinner.

Another boy who lost both legs, but all he said was 'Well, I got five Germans before they hit me.'

"I asked one boy if he hit a mine," the nurse continued. "He replied, 'No, the mine hit me.'

"I pulled a sheet up to treat a soldier whose whole back had been ripped off. 'Don't pull that sheet over me. I'm not dead yet,' he said.

"After watching German soldier patients you realize what our boys have got," Lt. Blandford added. "The Germans may think they are a master race but they sure change in hospitals. They whine when you touch them. They're perfect babies."

How Flier Stared At Death and Won

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, JUNIOR
(Written Expressly for the Hearst Newspapers)

AT AN ADVANCED NINTH U. S. AIR FORCE FIGHTER BOMBER FIELD, Somewhere in Belgium, Nov. 27—I came up here for two reasons—first, to see Col. Paul

P. Douglas, Jr., who was squadron commander when last I saw him on a fighter strip in Normandy shortly after D-Day; and second, to get a ride in a Thunderbolt which I was told Paul had rigged up to carry two persons.

The Ninth Bomber Command lent me an AT-6, which is an advanced two-seater training plane, and I flew up here the other afternoon.

The weather, which has been bad for weeks, was breaking up a little and the sun actually was out for the first time in many days.

I had not notified him in advance of my coming, and the look of surprise on his face as he walked over to my plane was worth the trip.

Douglas looked exactly the same as when I had seen him in Normandy. He is 25, short, well-built, his hair close-cropped and was very nattily dressed with the ever-present white parachute silk scarf around his neck and his little overseas cap perched jauntily over one ear.

He is now deputy commander of the group, which means that he is second in command to Lt. Col. Frank S. Perego, of Canandaigua, N. Y., with not only his former squadron under him but also the two others of the group. Paul's old squadron, "The Thunder Bums" is commanded by Capt. Dennis Crisp.

Maj. Harold P. Sparks of Frankfort, Ky., commands the second, known as "Panzer Busters," while Maj. Thomas J. Carbine is commander of the "Preying Angels."

Paul was going out on another flight, so I sat with Maj. Sparks—"Sparky" as he is known—and caught up a little on individual, squadron and group activities.

Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin. No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along never help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro.

Stars and Stripes Wave Over Verdun Fort Chain

By PIERRE J. HUSS

ON TOP OF THE VERDUN FORTS OPPOSITE FT. DRIANT, Nov. 26 (Delayed) (INS)—A flag-raising ceremony worth recording took place here today under the live guns of Ft. Driant.

Since early afternoon the Star-Spangled Banner has been waving over the Moselle river from a broken pole between the battered gun turrets of Ft. Blaise, which, with its twin bastion, Ft. Sommy, three limited yards away, dominates the east bank of the river a mile away from gloomy Ft. Drun.

Nazi sharpshooters on the Ft. Drun, through telescopic sights, could have picked us off, but the besieged men there were far too busy ducking heavy and medium shells which our guns tossed at them every five or ten minutes.

Twice formations of Thunderbolts roared overhead and glided into their bomb runs. Moments later the bombs burst in deep explosions, kicking the air our way. The privilege of taking over the Verdun chain was given to the Eleven Infantry regiment. It was this outfit which made the first crossing of the river just below here.

St. Blaise dominates a tortured acre of ground, gashed with yawning craters. Direct hits by 2000-pound bombs broke apart the 8-foot thick walls but the shells we aimed in did not penetrate the interior.

Four revolving steel turrets with a 150-millimeter gun in each formed the heavy artillery. Inside the turrets I found plenty of shells and powder charges.

There was plenty of canned food but not enough drinking water.

The German captain who surrendered the 148 men in the fort said he could have held out for a while but that there was no point to it.

Ft. Driant like St. Privat is un-

WAC Christmas Choir To Give Daily Programs

While their overseas sisters, carol Christmas even in Jerusalem, 20 WACS stationed in Boston will join the chorus in hymns of peace on earth.

The WAC Christmas Choir, made up from girls of the WAC Recruiting Headquarters, 276 Boylston st., announced to day that the group had been organized here after they heard that WACS stationed in the Near East would journey to the Holy Land to carol.

Lt. Helen Roy, executive officer at Recruiting Headquarters, said the choir would start singing Monday, Dec. 11, giving programs daily until Christmas at 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

With a portable field organ, the WACS will stand in the big show window at headquarters, 276 Boylston st., where passersby can watch them and listen over an amplifying system, or from the newly-decorated WAC Lounge, which is open to the public.

Under leadership of Sgt. Pearl Jacobson, who in civilian life was a choir leader, the WACS have been rehearsing on their own time for an hour daily.

Investigation disclosed the house and two buildings alongside it had been razed early this month after the city condemned them unsafe.

TRAGIC

THE RECENT assassination in Cairo of Lord Moyne, British Resident Minister in the Near East, by terrorists associated with but wholly UNREPRESENTATIVE of the Jewish community in Palestine, has had several unfortunate results.

The immediate tragedy was of course the deplorable crime itself.

An infinitely greater tragedy is inherent in the opportunities given by this inexcusable and indefensible crime to enemies of the Jewish people in Palestine, and throughout the world, to capitalize the incident to the detriment of the cause of Jewish resettlement and rehabilitation.

In connection with the latter phase of the matter, Prime Minister Churchill has been guilty of a singularly ill-considered and unfortunate observation.

"If our dreams for Zionism are to end in the smoke of the assassin's pistol and our labors for the future are to produce a new set of gangsters worthy of Nazi Germany," Mr. Churchill said, "then many like myself would have to reconsider the position we have maintained so consistently and so long in the past."

This was spoken in anger, and was unworthy of Mr. Churchill and UNFAIR to the Jewish cause and people.

IN ADVANCE of his statement, Mr. Churchill had received and should have been deterred by a message from Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, saying with reference to the Moyne assassination:

"Palestine Jewry will go to the utmost limit of its powers to cut out this evil from its midst."

Even after Mr. Churchill's intemperate statement, Dr. Abbe Hillel Silver, co-chairman of the American Zionist Emergency Council, said:

"Mr. Churchill's words with regard to the suppression of the terrorists in Palestine echo the united will of Palestine Jewry that this must be done."

"The Jews of Palestine are resolved to crush the terror by all means at their disposal and in that purpose they are supported by the entire Zionist movement in this country."

So Mr. Churchill does not merely have the assurance he asks, but already had WITHOUT ASKING.

It is pertinent to this whole situation, as Dr. Silver says, that the existence of terrorism in Palestine is attributable far more to faults in British policy than to the Jewish community itself.

"The hateful and criminal acts of these half-crazed youth," he cautions, "reflect the tensions produced by the anomalous political situation in Palestine and the urgent need for an early and just solution of the question of the future of the Jewish National Home."

THE VITAL source of these tensions and terrorism is the incomprehensible failure and refusal of the British Government, having responsibility for Palestine, to give the Jewish community either arms or authority to cope with restless and reckless elements.

The moral and spiritual value of the Jewish homeland is universally acknowledged.

The practical success of the enterprise to date, despite all difficulties and obstructions, is a matter of established fact.

It would be a crime against the civilized world, and a shame upon it, if aid and comfort given to the enemies of the Jewish people by their supposed friends should result in the collapse of the National Homeland and thus in the defeat of essential justice.

—CAROLINE NORTON.

ABOUT six years ago a dog I loved as everybody loves his dog was killed in an accident. That night, still in a kind of trance from the shock, I picked up a book of poetry and opened it at random. First thing that caught my eye was the lines above. I had never read them before. A strange coincidence! . . . From a young matron of Baltimore comes an unexpected, though welcome, request. She says: "Eddie, why did you stop telling us what you had for breakfast and dinner. I enjoyed hearing it. So did my husband who is six feet, two, weighing 192 pounds and is one of the most enthusiastic and appreciative eaters in Maryland." Well, last night for dinner I had tomato soup, fried chicken, beets, peas, sweet potatoes, ice cream and coffee. This is one of my favorite dinners and was especially prepared by my girl friend because she said I had been a "good boy" in that I had stopped chewing cigars in public when with her and had used a handkerchief. She also presented me with a fine cigar saying: "Now you can go into your study and chew it to your heart's content."

PLEASE NOTE: One of the nicest things ever said about a dog was Edith Wharton's description of her pet, which was as follows: "My little old dog, A heartbeats at my feet." I like fountain lunches that have a sign up: "Pity When Served." I like to pay when served. Think of all the time lost waiting for waitresses and others to give you checks to pay cashiers.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS.

Q—Are you videogenic or do you know what I mean? A—The term you use is applied to people like Lana Turner who have what it takes to look well in television. As to my being videogenic, I doubt it. But I have no ambitions in that direction. . . . Q—You once Lana Turner stated there was a Pittsburgh business man who played for the Pirates during his vacation. I think you are talking through your hat. Who was he? A—His name was Ernie Diehl. Ask Hans Wagner about it. M. Hans says my statement is incorrect. I will send you a fine 12-inch Pittsburgh stogie.

PASSING BY: Margaret Sullivan. Still charming capacity audiences in the stage hit "Voice of the Turtle."

Margaret Sullivan and look after the welfare of her husband and three children. Margaret is 38 years old. Only two feminine stars I know of who retired as young as that and never came back to the theater were Marguerite Clark and Eleanor Robson.

ASIDES: Give your stenographer 15 minutes off for a cup of coffee and a cigarette at 3:45 and you will not a lot more work out of her from 4 to 5 . . . Antoinette Maria Theresa Schlermuthauer is the name of a Carnegie Tech co-ed . . . Bing Crosby's best selling records are those of religious songs. This type of song has a longer life than the average popular ditty and the sale of such records can go on for years.

TAXI DRIVERS: A taxicab driver who owns his cab is in a pretty good spot. He can pick his own working hours, take a day off when he wants to and has nobody to boss him. If he is an enterprising fellow he can save his money and in time own a fleet of taxicabs. Difficulty is that in most cities the number of cabs licenses issued are limited. In any event, it seems to be a good business and men in service should give it a thought. Veterans will be able to borrow enough money to buy a cab.

SIDEGLITS: Writes a young woman of Buffalo, N. Y. "Join of Arc, when she commanded 70,000 troops and saved France was 18 years of age. Now a girl of 18 is not considered old enough even to enlist in the WACS. And yet they say time marches on!" . . . Am asked if the Princess Theater in Manhattan was not the smallest playhouse in New York theater history to present first grade productions. I believe the Punch and Judy Theater was smaller. The Princess had a seating capacity of about 290. The Punch and Judy less than 200.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—Altogether, from various sources, including President Roosevelt's press conference last week, it is now made clear that he resorted to deception in his campaign speech of Oct. 28 in which he boasted of the amplitude of the ammunition and equipment which were being sent to American fighting men in battle.

In his press conference, the President admitted that ammunition was being rationed and that lives were being lost as a result of this shortage.

On the same day, J. A. Krug, the New Dealer who replaced Donald Nelson as chairman of the War Production Board, the responsible agency, admitted that the ammunition "program" was 48 per cent behind. The lag in the gun "program" was 17 per cent and the lag in the combat and motor vehicle "program" 62 per cent.

Another spot of bad news was contributed by Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, regional director of the War Manpower Commission. About two months ago Mrs. Rosenberg went to Europe and learned that ammunition was being rationed outside Metz. This shortage, she said, had been blamed, in part, for the delay in the capture of Aachen.

That discovery was made LONG BEFORE Roosevelt's speech of Oct. 28. So, obviously, ammunition was short and lives were being lost for the lack of it at the very hour when he was appealing for votes with a false statement.

THE ACTUAL state of affairs was not available to Gov. Tom Dewey. It was a military secret closely held by the President as commander-in-chief and his subordinates both military and political.

It apparently did not occur to Mrs. Rosenberg to get this information to the people BEFORE election day when Dewey was analyzing the faults and failures with the WPB.

It apparently didn't occur to Lieut.-Gen. Brehon Somervell, the former WPA administrator in the political realm of Fiorello La Guardia, to contradict Roosevelt's campaign statements until he had been re-elected on the false pretense that all vital supplies were going "to the right place at the right moment" down to "the last cartridge."

Prior considerations having been duly served, however, Somervell thought that the appropriate people to tell about the shortages were the 600 professional unioners of the American Federation of Labor assembled in New Orleans for their annual session.

Nevertheless, even in breaking the shocking secret to these unioners, including the usual quota of racketeers, thugs and drunks, Somervell saw no wrong in promising them for some undefined part which they had played in achieving a rate of production that now added up to failure.

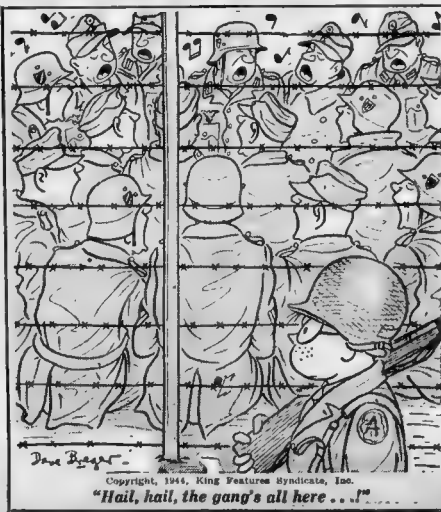

GENERALS MARSHALL and Eisenhower now also broke their silence but carefully, so as to frighten the people at home and drive quitters back to the war factories while refraining from any criticism of Roosevelt, Nelson, Krug or the unioners whose no-strike pledge had been violated ten thousand times.

These two generals are non-political and above connivance. But after all, Roosevelt is their chief, as he took such vain pleasure in pointing out so many times during the campaign.

THIS WAS one situation in which it was impossible to blame poor old Herbert Hoover, Warren Harding's Ohio gang or ex-Congressman Hiram Fish. It may have been Roosevelt's hope that in their alarm over the news, itself, that lives were being lost in consequence of failure, the public would not recall his boasting of such recent date and his great self-satisfaction as the architect of victories both in battle and in war production.

Parenthetically, on the same day that the CIO's convention, in Chicago, formally solidified the Political Action Committee into a permanent political auxiliary of the Roosevelt Party, the AP reported from Gary, Ind., about 50 miles away, that 39 CRANEMEN had ended a two-day strike which had halted ALL PRODUCTION at Carnegie-Illinois and made 5000 OTHER STEEL-WORKERS idle.

In the Roosevelt labor statistics, so often quoted to minimize the effect of strikes, this will count as a 48-hour strike of 39 men, not 48 hours of LOST PRODUCTION FOR 5039 MEN.

Substituting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27 — From here on in, Rudy Vallee's time is your time again. Which means Rudy, out of the Coast Guard after two years, picks up his Paramount contract where he left off and goes into "People Are Funny" with Jack Haley.

The boys are billed as co-stars in this Bill Pine-Bill Thomas radio comedy, which will be the most pretentious movie yet sponsored by the two Bills. Para, you remember, signed Vallee after he made a hit as the rich playboy in "Palm Beach Story."

There's also news about Bill Thomas in addition to this production. For the first time he will direct one of his movies, "Cheer Up the Corpses," with Bill Gargan and Ann Savage in the top spots. First thing you know he will be starring in one of the Pine-Thomas movies. Could be. He's photogenic.

STUDIOS AREN'T the only ones who suffer from actors' temperament. Agents have their headaches, too, although they are usually pictured as a merry group sitting back collecting their 10 per cent. But Johnny Weissmuller is so peeved with the William Morris agency he is refusing to renew with them when his contract is up Jan. 1. Johnny wants to turn from Tarzan to cowboy pictures. His agent says, "The woods are full of cowboy starts, but where is there another good Tarzan?" Johnny concedes the point, but still wants to get out of the woods.

MILDRED NATWICK goes back to her first love, comedy, in "Yolanda and the Thief" with Fred Astaire. And while this is no reflection on the wonderful dramatic job she is doing in "The Enchanted Cottage," the lady is naturally funny. If you didn't catch her as the rattlebrained fortune-teller with Clifton Webb in "Blythe Spirit" you missed one of the top stage performances of last season. The other day she completely broke up "The Enchanted Cottage" troupe in one of the most dramatic moments of the picture. She was supposed to moan, but what came out of Miss Natwick was nothing short of a banshee's wail.

CHARLES BICKFORD is the personal choice of Eddie Rickenbacker to play his father in "The Life of Eddie Rickenbacker." "He looks exactly like my father when I was a kid," Eddie says. "Then couldn't find anyone more perfect." This means Bickford returns to 20th, the studio where he made "Song of Bernadette" and almost won an Oscar for his performance as the priest.

not expected to live through the holiday. No one was more interested in little "Nubbins" case than Lou Costello. Because he was sick so long and had lost a youngster of his own, Lou brooded about the boy to the extent he called the mother by telephone Thanksgiving Day to see if he and Bud Abbott could finance a trip to the Mayo Clinic for him. The call was transferred from Cheyenne to Denver, where the boy is now under such splendid medical care his mother says he will pull through. "That calls for another Christmas party," said Lou, "and a real one this time."

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Lucille Fairbanks and Col. Owen Crump are the proud parents of a boy born last Friday; John Garfield and the blind sergeant, Al Schmid, visited the famed Liberty Bell together in Philadelphia. To give an idea of the dauntless courage of Schmid, he said: "It's the first time I've seen it. John, it's wonderful, isn't it?" The beautiful letter in her handwriting, written by Rosalind Russell to L.O.P., proves how much better Roz is—which is the best news of the day; Joan Crawford's hand is worn out. She has to spank every child who tests with her for the daughter role in "Mildred Pearce"; and 20 cherubs tested; received the following letter the other day: "Dear Miss: I am very interested in becoming a columnist or a writer. I think I should say just that I am very lonely, I haven't a friend in the world." That's enough, brother. You're practically in; it was a big night at "The Helpers" show at the Biltmore. This is the group that tends to personal things for the boys at Birmingham General Hospital and at Sawtelle. Current, 1944, King Features Synd., Inc.
NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—This begins my sixth year as a columnist, and I confess two things: I am pleased, and I am regretful.

I am pleased because, like all newspaper folk, above all I love a daily byline in sizeable type over my little newspaper within a newspaper; like all women I have my vanity and I enjoy the small extra attention that steadily comes a columnist's way; and, like most housewives, I am practical, and this is a more or less profitable profession.

I am regretful because with all this precious space at my disposal six days a week, 52 weeks a year, I have not been a crusader even in a minor sense. I have carried no banners, nor have I used any cudgels. I have reported the feuds and the heartaches of Broadway, but I have fought no battles for its rights. I begin a new year today and I cannot even bring myself to make any resolutions, for I know I am sure to continue in my easy, non-world-shaking style.

I HAVE my days when I would like to heat my column with political fire, but always long before deadline time I realize I can't compete with such brilliant flame-throwers as George Rothwell Brown or Westbrook Pegler. So I write of Clark Gable and Frank Sinatra and Van Johnson, and read of Harold Ickes and Senator Ball and other stalwarts of the national arena in pillars written by my neighbors. I guess it's a question of type. Political clubs are traditionally snake-

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—I'll bet I could write a piece stating there were fish in the ocean and have them all vanish overnight. Unless a challenge arises within 30 days I'm going to proclaim myself undefeated at many challenges. The "whimmy" for the benefit of my less frivolous clientele is an inside trade term employed by sports writers. The "whimmy" consists in putting the jinx on a team by writing, while the game is still in progress—that it was the winner.

Baseball writers are particularly given to this practice on days when they have to catch a train immediately after the game. But, if a manager or owner of the leading team happens to be in the press box and catches them at it he will attack them with his two bare hands, and often his feet.

Because it so nearly happens that the losing team wins in the last three minutes by a series of miracles.

IN THE innocent days when I wrote sports, and hadn't an enemy in the world, except everybody in sports, I used to be known as the "Whimsy Kid." I practically never missed. Among my outstanding successes were the World Series of 1929 between the Philadelphia Athletics and the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs had the game completely covered up, so I wrote my piece listing them as winners. But the A's won the game—and also the series.

Cub owner William Wrigley was so sure he started looking around for a new manager. And, for the record, that is really how Joe McCarthy came filled, and I like my air filtered. I'm quite sure I could dig up stories that would shake Broadway if I spent a few hours in the back room of any corner party club, but maybe Broadway doesn't want to quake every hour on the hour; maybe it would like, every now and then, just to laugh. And (let's be honest) maybe I don't want to spend a few hours in the back room of a corner party club. So I concentrate on the glitter and the trivia and the strange names of places like Shubert Alley and people like Billy Rose, and hope that the customers who sign their letters "Constant Reader" are not kidding me.

I HAVE FUN on my beat, and I've learned a lot of odd bits of things about interesting people. I've learned that envy is not only the bitterest but often the silliest emotion. Small-town girls and little shop clerks and Plain Janes won't ever believe it, of course, but I could tell them that dozens of super-looking and well-publicized glamour girls have the same heartaches and beau-trouble they themselves encounter. I've seen cover girls and Broadway beauties eating lunch alone at drug store counters. I've known a so-called femme fatale who simply can't hold any man she really cares for, and I've seen one of the most famous young playgirls wandering around town alone at night hoping to run into friends who might invite her to join them. Yes, even at El Morocco I've observed very pretty and very rich young ladies being "stood up" by the dates they were supposed to meet there.

I'VE BEEN AMUSED but not amazed to discover that girl singers never can see what the public sees in other girl singers, and I've been quite surprised to find professional jealousy practically dormant among comedians (male). I've learned that being an overnight sensation on Broadway doesn't necessarily mean that you sped from the seminary or summer stock to stardom. It isn't as quick and easy as that. Most of the big "discotheques" are folks who were around all the while, and could have been discovered practically any evening at all just sitting in Ralph's or Sardi's.

By George Dixon

BUT ALL this pales before my current achievement. Down in Texas the thing I got most hopped up about was the business of taking magnesium from sea water.

I practically predicted that there was a tremendous thing that would revolutionize industry. So what happened?

The WPB just announced that production of magnesium in government-owned plants will virtually cease by Jan. 1. The government doesn't want any more of it!

I REMEMBER one time the Giants were playing the Phillies. In those days anybody could beat the Phillies, including Henry Wallace. In fact the Philadelphia papers—always trying to find a sop for local pride—had standing headlines: "KI in and O'Doul hit homers; Phils lost."

The Giants were ahead by some astronomical score and I wanted to get away from the sordid scene. So I started writing that the Phils had nailed down another in their gallant fight for last place.

Mr. Horace Stoneham, the Giant owner, caught me at it and pointed with me to find up until the game was over.

"The Phils can't lose," I wrote.

"I know," said Mr. Stoneham. "But this is the woman I do not like to live with the Phils." I was soothed.

Why bother with the train? Why don't you go back to New York on your broomstick?

Boston After Dark

THE WAR DEPARTMENT'S somewhat consoling sequel to the dreaded "missing in action" telegram has been received by Sally Keith, the Boston blonde tassel-waver. . . Lt. Fred Keith, U. S. A., Sally's brother, is now a prisoner of war in Germany, she has been notified. . . Miss Keith has six brothers in service. . . Franchot Tone has lost his reputation for all-out veracity with this column. . . We traced him (under the strongest sort of an unexplainable hunch) a few weeks ago in Dinty Moore's, New York. . . "One question only," we bragged, "Are you going to do a Broadway play?" . . . "No," said Mr. Tone, "Just visiting." . . The news now comes out that Franchot has been in New York to prepare a stage play. . . With $100,000 of his own money to back it. . . Oh, well.

CHEER UP (SLIGHTLY) FOLKS. We hear authoritatively that action may be expected shortly in the Boston cigar black market, and a few hoarders of tremendous amounts of cigars are under official observation. . . On the home front here, the black market, in spite of anyone's inability to explain it is one of those discomforts of the war which can be sustained. . . But reports that our kids are paying $4.50 a pack for cigars in liberated France makes the worst kind of reading. . . It would seem to be a matter for SHAF and all the generals, that sort of profiteering. . . The best the home-front seems able to promise is a Congressional investigation. . . (Threats of Congress, at that, went a long way to relieve the black marketing of booze just about a year ago.)

THE OPA or whichever agency is responsible can help the hotelmen and the cafe operators slightly at this time by making known thus early whether this New Year's Eve is to be celebrated with or without those funny hats, nose-makers and kindred souvenirs. . . Last year officials swooped down on the night clubs and demanded that all souvenirs be taken from the patrons. . . Bill Bonner, the able Boston cop now with the hotel squad, is receiving congratulations on his 25th anniversary on the force. . . (And he still lives in good old Charlestown!)

THE RAD-DIO: The best light comedy program of the air (in this opinion) is Bill Berners in "The Life of Riley." . . So in dispensing credits everyone is named—the star, the sponsors (of course), the pro-

SCHOOLCOMMITTEEMAN NORTON is hanging his testimony on more than hearsay when he says that certain psychiatric experts have been on the trail of his brother, Supt. Harold Norton of the Mattapan hospital, for a period of eight years. . . We happen to know that the late Dr. V. E. Briggs had the axe out for Harold. . . He sought the aid of at least one Boston newspaperman (who was aiding at the time) in helping the Briggs' campaign to depose the school-committeeman's brother. . . Harold had been in office only a month or two when Dr. Briggs was "on" him.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27.—George Brent and Joan Fontaine are becoming very friendly off the set of "The Affairs of Susan." . . Joan Leslie's next picture at Warner's will be "The Broken Journey." . . Ava Gardner and Artie Shaw are really vooming. . . The Bill Cartier expect a baby. . . Friends of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz say that they will be back together. . . Ruth Hussey's husband has been promoted and is now Capt. Robert Longenecker. . . Judy Garland and Alexander Knox still go for those long walks. Knox's next role will be in Sidney Buchman's "Over Twenty-One."

IRVING BERLIN will write three new songs for "Blue Skies," in addition to the old favorites which will be in the picture. . . Vivian Blaine won't be paying commission to her agent Marnie Frank much longer for she will be Mrs. Marnie Frank.

BING CROSBY—He's a pal of Roy Lippa—may be having a little difficulty with Paramount, also. . . Caesar Romero is now on tour of defense factories for the Coast Guard, explaining how the weapons the factory workers turn out are used by the men in the fighting forces. . . Col. John Huston is in town working with Col. Frank Capra on the film, "Know Your Enemy—Japan." . . Charles Martin and Peggy Malloy are vooming. . . Chandra Kay is the dancing attraction at the Treadwell. The Hollywood Writer's Mobilization premiere of "Tomorrow the World" with a Town Hall type of meeting following the showing, is scheduled for the early part of December. . . The famous drinking song from "The Last Weekend" will be the running theme of "The Last Weekend." . . Jane Ball will have a leading role in George Jessel's "Kitten on the Keys."

William J. Wallace, USA, and post deb Phoebe Marion Fitz of Brookline which took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The bride, who also wears two silver bars on the shoulder of her Army (WAC) uniform, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Reginald Fitz of Walnut pl., at whose home the reception took place. Capt. Wallace is the son of Mrs. Wm. J. Wallace of Richmond, Va. His sister, the former Virginia Wallace, is the wife of Mr. Stettinius.

Both the bride and bridegroom are stationed in Washington where they will make their home. They were married by Rev. Frederic Lawrence in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Phoebe wore the corded silk gown and lace veil belonging to her sister, Mrs. William Buffum, who was married last Christmas Eve. Her bridesmaids, deb Edith Fitz, Mrs. Buffum, Sheila Gamble of Brookline and Marian Meredith of Toronto, member of the Women's Division, RCAF, wore turquoise blue with yellow daisy chrysanthemums.

JENNY MCKEAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Shaw McKean of Prudens Crossing, wore the picturesque satin brocade gown of her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. F. W. Sargent, for her marriage to Capt. Paul Moore, Jr. of the Resurrection, New York, at 12-15 yesterday. She was given in marriage by her father and afterward she and her Marine captain received at a luncheon in the Cosmopolitan Club.

Breakfast Tips

By MARTHA LEE

THE AMOUNT OF BREAKFAST anyone needs depends upon his or her age and degree of activity. But all of us require a good, hot meal before starting for work or school. Give the family a well-planned and well-cooked breakfast and they will eat it up. Be sure to include fruit, cereal or eggs or both, bread and plenty of freshly made coffee.

VARY MORNING TOAST

Besides giving the family plenty of good coffee and an altogether nutritious meal, surprise them now and then with a special treat of some kind. Hot breads, for instance, make a hit with almost everyone. Freshly baked coffee cake for breakfast is sure to tempt lagging appetites. The following recipe makes a particularly delicious coffee cake.

CRUMBLY COFFEE CAKE

Topping:

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup corn flakes

1 tbsp. melted butter or margarine

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup granulated or brown sugar

$\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. cinnamon

Roll corn flakes into fine crumbs and mix with other ingredients.

Cake Dough:

2 tbsp. shortening

1-1 cup sugar

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup flour

2 tsp. baking powder

$\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt

$\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. nutmeg

2-1 cup milk

Blend shortening and sugar together. Add egg and beat well. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and spice; stir into first mixture alternately with milk. Pour into greased pan and cover with topping. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 9 servings (9x9-inch pan).

CEREAL MUFFINS

2 tbsp. shortening

2 tsp. sugar

1 egg

1 cup whole wheat flakes

2-3 cup milk

1 cup sifted flour

$\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt

2-1 tsp. baking powder

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Stir in slightly crumbled wheat flakes and milk. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full; bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 8 muffins (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

Crumbly Coffee Cake

JOHNNY CAKE

2-3 cup sifted all-purpose flour

$\frac{1}{2}$  tsp. salt

1 tsp. baking powder

1 tsp. sugar

1-1 cups yellow cornmeal

2 eggs, well beaten

2-3 cups sour milk or buttermilk

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup melted shortening

Combine and sift together first five ingredients, stir in corn meal. Combine eggs, milk and shortening and add, all at once, to dry ingredients. Stir until just blended, but no longer. Turn into a greased pan 11x7x1 1/2 inches and bake in a moderately hot oven of 400 deg. F. for 30 to 35 minutes. Cut in squares and serve hot.

Fashion

GOING SOUTH? A "let's travel" look is achieved in this grey suit of men's worsted . . . cut with a straight skirt and dressmaker jacket that fastens with ties at the waist and neck. The pin-tucked white lawn dickie with a flat row of baby pearl buttons down the center adds that delicate, soft look. The hat is grey . . . and all in all, Hunt T. Stromberg's star, Ruth Warrick, is ideally costumed for going away.—R. M.

Introductions

You may be particularly "pleased to meet" that soldier or sailor who is being introduced to you. But, as you acknowledge the introduction, don't say this phrase, which is incorrect to acknowledge any introduction. Say "How do you do," the always-proper words to use when you acknowledge an introduction. The right first words . . . the right first impression!

Adds Dash of Sparkle

By BETTINA BEDWELL

CROWN jewels, fabulous in history of queens, are the latest items to be requisitioned for all the girls of this democracy. Casteloff, famed jewelry designer, makes jeweled crowns in costume jewelry which is a very important part of holiday jewel styles. The crowns are in varied sizes and are either gold or silver, set with beautifully realistic sparkling stones, or with pearls and diamonds. They are made into earrings, and pendants and clips, and you are entitled to wear not one crown but a flock of them if you feel that way. A big crown worn in the old-fashioned manner at the center of your neckline will mark you as a very chic young lady. Or you can wear them like in Miss Dulin's sketch, as a sort of chateleine on a dress or suit, joined by fine gold chains.

Makes Teeth Pearly

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THERE ARE SMILES that make you happy . . . there are smiles that make you sad . . . (with apologies to the old-time ditty) . . . but the smile that takes the beauty out of a girl's face . . . and how . . . is the one which makes a public display of a flock of molars on the dark and dingy side.

A pretty girl is like a melody until she opens her mouth . . . and if she can't back up facial interest with a set of dentures that are pearly-white and shiny-bright . . . her whole appearance strikes an incongruous, discordant note of false harmony. Beauty quick tricks are often more than tricks. They are essential props to keeping a girl on the beauty beam.

So don't imagine yourself a world-beater just because you're dressed in the height of fashion and could take a sartorial prize for top-toe color symphony. What counts more is that provocative smile and laughter and a mouthful of beautiful teeth . . . framing this and that bon mot.

Of course, if you're the gal who cries alone because you lack that pearly smile . . . then you don't know about an amazing preparation for the teeth . . . a covering that whitens them at least six shades lighter and gives them that "posed for an ad" look. It doesn't matter how smoke-stained your teeth are . . . how dingy and discolored by fillings they may be . . . this covering hides all from a critical world . . . and, my dear, you can smile broadly.

SAFE FOR GUMS

It is absolutely harmless . . . though it is NOT a substitute for dental care. It is a dental enamel . . . that will stem the tide until your dentist invokes the oral glamour you should have and should not neglect. But in the interim . . . a girl can't sit home, can she? . . . she must have fun and keep up appearances. That's why this amazing evidence of the craftsmanship of cosmetic science . . . a tested preparation that does no injury to either gums or teeth . . . can ever be at a girl's beck and call to keep her always "lovely to look at, delightful to see."

LUSTROUS PEARLINESS

From a tunnel of darkness . . . your mouth will be magically transformed into unusual beauty once you've applied this "smiles by the bottle" liquid . . . a preparation similar in execution to nail polish for your fingertips and with the same glorifying results. The cosmetic enamel coats your teeth . . . as polish glamorizes your fingernails . . . into lustrous pearly-whiteness with one application . . . and is removed simply when your teeth are ready for another application.

For the name of this smile invoker . . . Boone Dental, Liberty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOU MAY BE luscious-limbed and blue-eyed . . . but if you're afraid to open your mouth and smile because your teeth are dingy dark, nicotine-stained or discolored by fillings . . . your beauty is a total loss. If you'd like to be the charming cynosure that Columbia Star Evelyn Keyes is . . . enamel your teeth into pearly white beauty with a harmless preparation that goes on and comes off at will.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sunday—We got back from Hyde Park this morning and were immediately plunged into a riot of dogs, because Miss Laura Delano, who came back with us, brought one of her red setters; Fala, of course, was with us; Anna and Johnny with Ensign, their Labrador retriever, met us at the door; and a new mastiff puppy, two months old, was disporting herself around us in a typical puppy fashion!

Every day while I was in Hyde Park I took a long walk in the woods with the dogs up there. We had beautiful weather and I discovered that when the leaves are down walking through the woods is very revealing. You learn so many secrets that the trees in their summer garb hide from you. You see how many trees have been blown over by the various storms and what a nice, warm blanket of leaves covers all the ground in anticipation of winter's cold and frost.

Separation from family and friends is always hard; and for a woman, taking the training, accepting full military discipline and, above all, living in barracks is probably harder than for a young man.

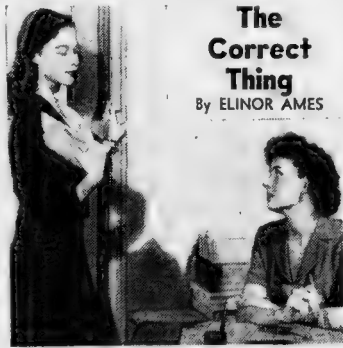

Therefore, I think we owe the women in all the military services our gratitude and a word of congratulation and praise when their anniversaries come around. I tender mine to the SPARS with heartfelt thanks.

of World War I. My husband's death was not service-connected. I have one child. Am I entitled to compensation?

S. F., Gloucester.

A—Legislation for protection of such widows and orphans is now pending in Congress. The bill is before the Senate Finance Committee. It has already passed the House. The American Legion is attempting to have this bill passed before the present Congress expires next month. Under terms of the bill, you would be eligible for $38 monthly.

Q My son overseas for two years has a $10,000 National Life Insurance policy, of which I am named beneficiary and his father contingent beneficiary. My question is based on the assumption that if both myself and husband should die and in case of his death, where would insurance payments go? He would have no other relatives, only distant cousins. He plans to get married when the war is over. Could he name the girl a contingent beneficiary now?

MRS. M., Portland, Me.

A—Cannot name girl grand beneficiary. In case both beneficiaries should pass away and son meets death, under conditions you state above, insurance money would revert to his estate. If no estate, then it remains in government hands.

Q—My brother joined the Navy. Could he make out a gov't allotment for me and my two children? Please state in what classification I would belong.

Randolph Hearst National American History Awards.

Competitors in more than 40 of the city's high schools will have just these three days to brush up on their knowledge of the nation's inspiring history before sitting down to answer 20 questions dealing with significant phases of its record of achievement.

Also required of competitors in the test will be an essay of not more than 250 words on a subject of historical interest which they may choose from four themes submitted to them in the examination.

The Boston committee has granted an hour and one-half to competitors for answering the questions, and three-quarters of an hour in which to complete the essay.

The three outstanding test papers will give their authors' positions as finalists in the National final, to be held Monday, Dec. 11, in 13 key cities taking part in the Awards. Boston finalists will take their tests in Faneuil Hall.

Finalists will be eligible for awards totaling $3850 in War Bonds. These awards are: First, $2000; second, $1000; third, $500; fourth, $250; fifth through ninth, $100 each; tenth to 41st, $50 each.

In addition, Boston's thousands of competitors will be eligible to share in $1000 in War Bonds donated by the Boston American, Record and Sunday Advertiser. A $100 set of American history books also will be presented to the school whose students make the best record in the local test.

Local awards are: first, $200; second, $100; third, $75; fourth through sixth, $50; and seventh through 25th, $25 each.

Warm—but not fair!

JOE's got the house too hot by careless firing of the furnace, so he's trying to heat all outdoors by opening the windows. Through wasteful practices, he isn't being fair to his own family—or to other families using coal. He isn't helping America.

And conserve the coal he is able to deliver to you through firing carefully, closing off unused rooms, pulling down shades at night and through other simple precautions. For other suggestions see your coal dealer.

This winter it's vital to conserve coal as never before. This isn't because less coal is being produced. Actually, millions more tons are being mined this year than last—by fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

One of the biggest jobs of the C&O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.

There are adequate facilities for hauling coal to your city. But certain grades and sizes of coal are needed for war production. And, in addition, your local coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him. Order before you're down to your last shovelful.

Doctors Warn Folks Who Are Constipated!

Ever feel like this?

MENTALLY DULL
 HEADACHE
 NO PEPS
 UPSET STOMACH with gas, bloating.

Constipation is often accompanied by many discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. And here's good advice!

For years a noted Ohio Physician, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully relieved scores of patients from constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists from coast to coast.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable are wonderful—not only so gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO pep up liver bile flow. No griping or weakening effects. Test TONIGHT to feel "up-top" tomorrow. Follow label directions.

Trolley Car Fire Scares Riders

Clang, clang, clang went the trolley; ding, ding, ding, went the bell.

Zing, zing, zing went the hearts of six passengers aboard a Boston-bound street car as it reached the Chelsea bridge in East Boston and none of them rode to the end of the line.

For a short circuit filled the car with smoke and flame and caused Motorman Charles Gibbons of Harvard St., Malden, to order everyone out. Firemen extinguished the blaze. Damage was set at $50.

B. C. Loses but Gives Fine American Lesson

By AUSTEN LAKE

I trust nobody will accuse me of dipping a diplomatic knee to defeat. But I insist that the big, focal moment of the H. C. B. C. Sabbath game was not in the hula-hipped fandangoes and limber legged mazurkas of the H. C. backfield. That, of course, was neat enough and deserves just due.

To me the dramatic apex of the afternoon in an otherwise handsome limbo, was B. C.'s spunky refusal to come apart after the pure fun had gone out of the contest and in its will power to stuff over a pair of touchdowns in the teeth of the tempest. That took entrails.

Now admittedly two touchdowns don't stand for much in a 36 to 14 trouncing. But there was more in this than just a football game and 22 padded kids struggling over a windbag. I imagined that I saw a little shirt-tail hunk of that intangible thing we call "competitive American grit" sticking out from the ribs of reality—that never-lay-down-and-take-it stuff that's made our nation great.

Austen Lake

So the blackboard on the center field fence said "H. C. 36, B. C. 14" as the afternoon moved toward its 5 o'clock shadow. And the B. C. kids were snuffing up their nose bleeds and grinning mirthless grins and hitching up their mud-stained pants for some more of the same dose.

It was that familiar point in a lop sided game, well known to veteran athletes, when a team suffers from spiritual droop and often comes apart like soggy pasteboard. There wasn't any future in this struggle! H. C. had given all the demonstration and B. C. had taken most of the lessons? So why accumulate more bumps, sprains and bruises? Why risk permanent impairment from one more blow on the head or chin or kidneys?

They Had Something Left in the Barrel

KIDS OF LESSER COMPETITIVE SPIRIT might have resigned to futility right there. But not these B. C. juveniles who average 18 years and weigh an average 169 pounds. They crimped their toenails and clenched their molars and, like Oliver Twists, asked for more.

Suddenly late in the fourth quarter when a few of the congealed spectators were going home to thaw out their frigid plumbing, the Eagle pass receivers began tearing down field in fantail formations like burglars caught in the act of blowing a safe. And little Bobbie Owens began sharp-shooting the yellow egg, sometimes at a designated target and sometimes giving it a goshamightly heave that carried merely a good luck kiss and a message for whom it might concern. The B. C. receivers seemed to have grown elastic arms and suction caps on their fingers. So before you could say Massachusetts Institute of Technology there were two touchdowns and 14 points for the Juniors.

Of course there was some solid, hard-hitting running plays interspersed between the passes to draw the H. C. secondary into shallow positions behind the line and then open to keep heaves. It is one of football's favorite tactics to work on the opposing defenses as a gypsy minstrel plays on an accordion, drawing the secondary in close by rushing and then driving them back by passing.

But that's not the point. The point is that a team, bounced, pummeled and mangled for 55 minutes and 30 tallies, swallowed its brutal defeat stoically and never inside the secret recesses of its collective soul said that little surrender word "Uncle."

What Makes Our 'Guts' Different

Which is exactly the sort of moral fibre which makes the U. S. Infantrymen go plodding on through exhaustion, ankle deep mud, bitter cold, driving rain, foodless and facing enormous odds—as I have so lately seen them doing through the fortified Siegfried Line. I may have written before about the combat engineers' watched building a timber bridge over a German mountain stream, most of them wallowing semi-nude in the icy waters. And at intervals, Nazi sharpshooters burst over their heads with a deafening shock that brought metallic tastes to the back of my tongue. But the men worked on without flinching, setting the supports, locking the spans and bolting the rails. And they worked two days under that rain of steel-splitting hate until their job was done. It was that fundamental thing engendered at home—the thing called Guts!

And what, you may ask, is the difference between American guts and German guts and Japanese guts. I will attempt to tell you! Japanese guts is bred from a fatalistic fanaticism stemming from youthful robot training. There is no intelligence involved—just the dull mechanism of minds shaped to fit the needs of a military caste system. And the German guts are socially inbred to the same mould—except that when cornered the German will, and does, quit! I've seen them, in sequestered corners of the Siegfried Line, isolated in pillboxes with plenty of food, water and ammunition, chuck the job and come out without a shot. Not always, but often.

I argue then that what our U. S. kids do have, an inheritance in the volition of America, is the competitive intelligence and personal initiative to overcome odds, and the shrewd will to dig toeholds and devise ways to circumvent an utter rout and landslide defeat. I think some of that knock was evidenced in the B. C. boys' comeback against H. C.'s greater muscle, skill and manpower on Sunday. And I hope you do not think my premise too thin.

Bruins Start Rolling

By BILL GRIMES

Judging from the way they clicked against the Toronto Maple Leafs on Thanksgiving Day and the New York Rangers last night, the Bruins are beginning to roll. Until the Bruins reached their home port, Manager Art Ross held them in check.

He has been around the N. H. L. long enough to realize that fifty games make a strenuous season. He does not want to have a stale squad on his hands when the going gets really rough in February and March.

With an 18-year-old goalie and six other ex-amateurs on the roster, the Bruins were not given much consideration from the fans at the start of this campaign. Harvey Bennett is showing to better advantage in every game. On many occasions, Bennett has been sensational and the fans really appreciate his ability.

Kenny Smith and Bill Cupolo, who with Frankie Mario, comprise the Typhoon line, are exceptionally fine wing men. They are fast, game and aggressive and play heads-up hockey at all times. Art Ross has the makings of another Kraut trio in these kids.

Paul Gladiu and Armand Gaudreault have replaced Norm Caladine and Gino Rozzini as blankmen on the third line, which is centered by Art Jackson. Like Smith and Cupolo, Gladiu and Gaudreault turned pro this fall.

The 1944-45 Bruins are noticeably faster than last year's club. And, speed pays off in hockey, especially since the red line was adopted.

Unless they met up with some serious injuries, the Rossmen have the call over Rangers and the Blackhawks for fourth place. Manager Ross has a club which will be far more formidable as the season advances. The kids are naturals and will improve with experience.

The Canucks chalked up their first win over the Maple Leafs last night in Montreal and the Hawks nosed out the Red Wings, in Chicago, 6 to 5.

The Maple Leaf's now have three key men on the hospital list. Dave "Sweeney" Schirmer, Lorne Carr and Elwyn "Moose" Morris. However, they are not scheduled to play until next Saturday night, when they will take on Rangers at home. Then, after meeting the Bruins here at the Garden, next Sunday, the Daymen lay off for another six days.

The Red Wing game tomorrow night will offer an opportunity to size up the Bruins. Jack Adams' charges have beaten the Rossmen twice in Detroit. There were, however, horse shoes hanging all over them when they nipped Boston a week ago last night.

The Bruins walked through the Rangers to the tune of 8 to 4 last night. They put on a show for the fans, going after the Blue Shirts from the opening face off and never easing up until late in the third period.

They were leading 3 to 1 after one period, 6 to 1 at the end of the middle stanza and then tallies by Bill Jennings and Frankie Mario put them seven goals up shortly after the final period got underway.

JOHN E. WARNER Says: "DON'T SCRATCH YOUR HAIR AWAY"

This young man has a good head of hair and doesn't feel that he will ever be bald. Yet his scalp is laden with dandruff, itches constantly, and he loses a great deal of hair each day. His hair is going and the constant itching is nature's warning that baldness is on the way. Right now a short period of pleasant, low cost treatment used by John E. Warner and Associates would get rid of this dandruff, check the abnormal hair fall and normalize his scalp.

A few years later it is too late, his appearance is permanently marred, a serious handicap to anyone. Don't let baldness come to you since scientific Warner treatment and proper care afterward can prevent it in most cases. There is no charge or obligation for a private scalp examination and consultation.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.

Giants, Skins In Pro Grid Tie

The Philadelphia Eagles who confidently hoped to breeze along to the championship of the National Football League eastern division and into a play-off with the Green Bay Packers for the league title found themselves suddenly in third place today.

The revived Chicago Bears were to blame, upsetting the Eagles 28 to 7 before 34,034 fans in Shibe Park, Philadelphia. In the meantime, the New York Giants were taking the Brooklyn Tigers into camp, 7 to 0, at New York and the Washington Redskins at Griffith Field were defeating the Boston Yanks 14 to 7, before a capacity crowd of 35,450.

This put the Giants and the Redskins in a tie for first place in the Eastern Division with six wins, one defeat and one tie each and placed the Eagles down in third place with five victories, one defeat and two ties.

The Bears drew penalties aggregating 170 yards, a new league record.

Wilbur Moore and Sammy Baugh, with Sammy doing the pitching, collaborated in scoring the Redskins' winning tally against Boston in the third period. The Redskins had scored in the first period when fullback Frank Akins went over, but Keith Ransport tied it up for Boston by taking Leo Stasica's pass for a touchdown in the third period.

The Green Bay Packers, champions of the Eastern Division, defeated the Card-Pitts, 35 to 20, at Comiskey Park in Chicago before only 7158 customers. Don Hutson registered two of the Packers' touchdowns. He closed his season with a total of 85 points, 28 over his nearest rival, Frankie Sinkwich of the Detroit Lions, but Detroit has another game to play.

The Detroit Lions, who could knock the Bears out of the second spot in their remaining game, came from behind to whip the Cleveland Rams, 26 to 14, in the last eight minutes of play at Cleveland.

Ruth's Home Runs Aided Landis Save Baseball

By JACK CONWAY

I AGREE WITH all of the nice things that Austen Lake, Col. Dave Egan and the have written about the late high commissioner of baseball, Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

I also accept the statements made by the baseball magnates, and I include in that category those issued by owners who at times disagreed in no more than terms with some of the drastic rulings of Judge Landis.

There is not any question about Judge Landis' great contribution to baseball. He took over the direction of the sport in 1921 after the Black Sox scandal brought disgrace on the national pastime. While the famous judge made a grand contribution to baseball, his success would not have been so great as it was if it had not been for George Herman (Babe) Ruth who is today the forgotten man of baseball.

There was no questioning the sincerity and the honesty of Ruth's home runs which helped more than anything else that happened on the playing field to cause the public to forget the dishonesty of the Chicago White Sox players who sold out the 1919 World Series with the Cincinnati Reds to a group of unscrupulous gamblers.

Landis always appreciated what Ruth had done for baseball, and he lacked his usual harshness in handing down decisions when he would call the Sultan of Swat on the carpet for some boyish prank. The judge knew better than most people that if it had not been for Ruth's home runs and amazing color that the sport would not have made such a quick comeback following its days of ill repute.

Ruth was a star left-handed pitcher for the Red Sox during the days of baseball corruption, and his name was never touched by scandal. Babe pitched to win with the same enthusiasm that he slammed the ball out of the park.

Ended Baseball Evils

JUDGE LANDIS ended baseball evils. Many of his most drastic moves were made behind closed doors and did not get any publicity. It was decided that baseball could not show all of its skeletons and survive. Corrective measures were taken in all cases and the men who had been guilty of improper practices were punished.

Meanwhile Babe Ruth, who had been sold by Harry Frazee of the Red Sox to the Yankees, kept knocking out home runs, and the great period of the New York Yankees got underway. Lou Gehrig, Everett Scott, Herb Pennock and other baseball greats helped Ruth and Landis in their job of making the public forget.

YOU would have liked Judge Landis if you had been in his company, listened to his fiery talks which were jammed with wit, and watched him deal out justice from the top of the deck. Nineteen years this coming spring Judge Landis, Burt Whiteman, the late Eddie Hurley and this writer were riding in an auto to a golf club in New Orleans during a Red Sox training session when Bob Quinn owned the club. The country had come through World War I in a strong condition and sports were booming. It was easy to be happy with the sun shining and with the prospects of a fine game of golf.

"How much money do you get, Judge?" Eddie Hurley asked with a twinkle in his eye.

"I receive $75,000 a year and an unlimited expense account," replied the Judge with a chuckle. "It isn't too hard traveling through the South and playing golf with you boys. I guess, Eddie, I have the softest job in America."

Later when the Judge, his golf shots right down the center of the fairway, was low man in the golf match, Eddie Hurley addressed him again.

"You played such a good game of golf, Judge," said Eddie, "that we are going to let you throw a little dinner tonight for the press and for the club officials. The place I have in mind serves fine spaghetti and good beer."

"The dinner is on," said the Judge, "but you must agree to give me a chance to beat you playing golf again tomorrow."

My last meeting with Judge Landis was at the first tee of the Belleair Club outside of Clearwater, Fla., five years ago. The Judge spotted me as I walked towards the tee. After a warm greeting, the Judge told me of some new reforms he was instituting in baseball. They made national headlines.

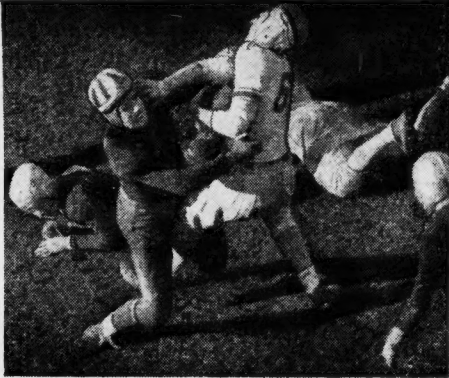

Judge Landis was one of the great men of our period because he was human and a realist as well as honest and just. His decisions, like his golf shots, were always right down the middle of the fairway.

Fourth Stringers to Swing On HC-BC Star

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Said 14-year-old Sonny Coyle Darwin to the 14-year-old drum major: "I don't want to be a starter when I go to BC. I want to be a fourth stringer. That's the only way to swing on a star."

Sonny was one of the 30,000 who saw HC defeat BC 30-14, saw HC's Jim Cahill (ex-BC) explode like an All-America fullback, saw Robert Malcolm 'Tot' Owens spark BC to two TD's in the fourth period.

Cahill isn't exactly a fourth stringer. He was second string tailback against Dartmouth, third string against Brown when Walter Sheridan became eligible. After Sheridan's advent, Cahill faded into obscurity. It wasn't until the BC game he was used at FB. Yet he was the fourth man HC had started at FB—Turner, Nester and Kennedy his predecessors. That was Sonny's thought.

Owens, however, was distinctly a fourth stringer. Eddie Cronin had started the season at QB for BC, was succeeded by Englert after his injury; Englert in turn was succeeded by Tom Seymour, who started the HC game. BUT OWENS FINISHED IN MAJOR LEAGUE FASHION.

The morning papers have said how Ank Scanlan eased up on BC in the fourth period, how he used his subs, etc. BUT BC HAD AS MANY SUBS IN AT THE TIME AS HC.

"HC is weak in pass defense," BC's Sarno said all week. "Seymour, you do this; Englert, you do that; are you listening, Owens? You might have to get in there yourself."

Seymour was hurt early in the game. Englert replaced him. Sarno's orders were to "spread, spread, spread," but the orders weren't followed.

In went Owens with the score 30-0 against BC. The kid didn't look at the scoreboard. He started to pass.

Owens is no Sammy Baugh. He doesn't cock his right hand, fake here and there; just winds up from his hip pocket and lets go. Anyway, in the fourth period, he started passing from the BC 32 after hard-girding Joe Elliott intercepted a pass. There it went—Owens to Walsh—great catch by Walsh—to midfield . . . Owens to Murphy to 33 . . . HC penalized 15 for unnecessary roughness . . . Owens' pass to Walsh to the 20 . . . Owens back-hands ball to Walsh to 15 . . . Ferdien passes to Owens to the 10 . . . Owens passes to Walsh to the 5, and Elliott bulls over for the TD.

Score—HC 30, BC 7.
 Late in fourth period, Owens himself intercepted by Malcolm on 44. Owens immediately passes to Murphy to the 21 . . . Owens' TD pass intended for Elliott called interference on the 3-yard stripe and Elliott goes over for second TD. Score—HC 30, BC 14.

What was that? Ten out of 11

Army Average 452 Yds. a Game

By PAT ROBINSON

Are you thinking of making a little friendly wager on that Army-Navy game? . . . If so, here's a couple of tidbits from the food for thought department. Army's average gain per game is 452.5 yards . . . beating modern Georgia record of 429.5 yards.

Army has averaged better than 10 yards on every play . . . Army has averaged 313.7 yards a game by rushing . . . beating Colorado's 1937 record of 310 yards . . . In 1942 Tulsa set mark at 427 points in scoring . . . Army already has rolled up 481 . . . Sailor, beware!

Army's first-down mark is not so hot because, foolishly, we don't count long runs for touchdowns as first downs . . . and the Kaydets specialize in those long gainers.

Wonder if numerous injuries and several fatalities this season could be traced to immature 17-year-olds playing varsity football? . . . Some of these youngsters are behemoths . . . but they are necessarily immature and unhardened . . . and they can't stand the gauf like they could if allowed to season for two or three years more.

We're growing them bigger—perhaps even better—all the time . . . some of these kid football players weigh 275 pounds . . . and there's a youngster on a Pennsylvania high school team who scales out 300.

That reminds us Cornell is counting heavily on Ed Peterson . . . a basketball ace . . . who towers 6 feet 9 inches into the stratosphere . . . Wonder who is the tallest game player this year?

We're reminded further that although C. C. N. Y. annually produces the weakest of all college football teams . . . they are the finest of basketball teams.

due in no small measure to the excellent coaching of Nat Holman . . . old-time original Celtics star. Add anti-climaxes to a collegiate football career . . . George Loh . . . Yale quarterback . . . Unable to play final game . . . because of childish attack of mumps.

New Jersey planning two new post-war race tracks . . . One at Long Branch . . . other at Atlantic City . . . And Big Bill Dwyer is trying to sell his New Jersey farm for still another merry-go-round.

Tony Longo . . . Inwood golf club pro . . . says golfers could improve game "if they'd quit thinking when addressing ball . . . Which is an indirect way of saying that golfers can and do think."

And that the old molar-muncher . . . Mike Jacobs . . . isn't planning a million-dollar post-war fight game . . . no, indeed . . . Mike's planning to surpass the $3,000,000 gate Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey drew at Chicago . . . in the battle of the long count . . . and he intends to do it with King Louis and Billy Conn . . .

Coast punters are complaining that horses . . . recently campaigned on New York tracks . . . are overated and don't run so well when made favorites . . . but eastern punters learned to their sorrow that some of the bags can run much better at 5 to 1 than they can when they are 1 to 5 . . . Selah.

Saugus Gets Chance For Share of Title

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Coach Dave Lucey of Saugus High School will be igniting the spark of a fire he hopes will spread to state championship honors when he sends his sparkling Sachems against the mighty undefeated Peabody High eleven in a postseason clash tonight at Manning Bowl. Lynn-

The contest will have no standing insofar as figures in Classes A and B are concerned, but still the result just can't be ignored as having a bearing on the state title.

Just suppose, for a minute, that Saugus comes through with its eleventh straight victory of the season—and there are quite a few coaches and grid experts who are sure that it can happen. Then, suppose that Peabody rebounds next Sunday to whip Salem in their lengthily disputed tilt. Where does that leave Saugus?

Not only would the Lucey A. C. own the Class B crown but it would be awfully hard to ignore the Sachems as State Champions if this dream of Coach Lucey should come true.

Saugus, a great team of fundamentalists led by the clever Frank Pyzsko, will go into the game with nothing to lose and everything to gain—a very important factor in schoolboy football. Even in defeat, Saugus would retain the class B title. But winning, Coach Lucey could rightfully claim a piece of the crown and it would be a claim that could stand the test of argument.

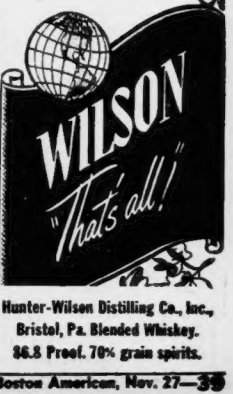

Lucas' chances? Well, theaney A. C. whipped Marblehead 5 to 0 against Peabody's 21-0; the Satherns oundered Lynn Classical 24 to 13 (Lynn's touchdowns coming against reserves), while the Tanners beat Classical 22-0; and Saugus slapped Beverly 30-0 against Peabody. Off-o against the same team. Of comparative scores, they rate about even but there's no telling how this feud will finish.

Add the names of Henry Toczykowski of Arlington High School and Bill Cronin of Hingham representing the South Shore to the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Board of Coaches . . . They'll be meeting at the Hotel Leaning tomorrow night to make their final selections for the 1944 official All-Scholastic football team . . . release date will be announced shortly.

Other members of this board will include Bill Ohrenberger of Boston English; Ed "Skip" Sherlock, Hyde Park; Harry Downes, Brookline; Mark Devlin, Lawrence; Glen O'Brien, Salem; Dennis Gildea, Everett; George Kenneally, Revere; Fred Ostergren, director of athletics at Arlington and Bill Broderick, in charge

A First Taste

These four British youngsters enjoy their first taste of ice cream, as the ban on the manufacture of the delicious edible, is lifted in England for the first time, after nearly six years. Their expressions suggest that the ban-lifting is good.

Home From the Wars—This poignant meeting between Pvt. Sam Macchia, New York wounded veteran, with his parents on a Gotham sidewalk, is snapped by an alert cameraman, as the returning soldier hugs his bewildered mother. Macchia, who has been in service since 1942, was wounded in the battle of St. Lo in Normandy. (INS Photo)

Came in With a Roar—Shooting flames, rock and sand skyward, this Huntington Beach, Cal., oil well blew in with a roar that jarred the entire town, according to officials. The explosion and flames, which threaten a nearby butane gas plant, have already caused more than $25,000 in equipment damage. (AP Wirephoto)

Father Christmas Brings Tears—An American soldier holds a frightened Belgium boy as a woman wipes away the tears, brought on by the lad's sight of Father Christmas in a toy store in Liege, Belgium. Other kiddies wait their turn to greet the bearded and be-wigged gentleman, who, like our own Santa Claus, will reign until the Yuletide. (Associated Press Wirephoto)
